Description

These are the largest backhoes in the LEWIS range. More heavily built than the 300 range, the 400 range are for the largest of compact tractors as well as agricultural tractors of 60 HP+. These backhoes are used in applications where increased digging depth and lift capacity are a must. The 420S has a digging depth of and 3.3m and can be mounted via the LEWIS Backhoe chassis beams to large compact tractors. Similar to the 420, the 420S incorporates a sideshift frame, capable of 830 mm of travel. This machine has been specifically designed for the professional user on medium to large compact tractors. Typical uses include golf course maintenance, cemetery work, roadside maintenance, laying services and pipework as well as numerous applications in large gardens and estates.
